LIGHT HOUSES.

Commissioners for Light Houses in the Bay of Fundy.
—Robert W. Crookshank, Thomas Barlow, John Warr, Junior, and Lauchlan Donaldson, Esquires.

Commissioners for Partridge Island and the Beacon Light Houses.—John Ward and L. Donaldson, Esquires.

Cape Sable Seal Island Light.—The first Light in approaching the Bay of Fundy, is on the South Point of the Seal Island. This Light is elevated about 80 feet above high water mark, and may be seen in approaching the Island from any point of the Compass. A very dangerous Rock, under water, but upon which the sea always breaks, called Blonde Rock, lies about 2 miles S. S. W. by Compass, from the Light House. Between this rock and the Island, there are some dangers—the ground is rocky throughout, and large vessels, therefore, ought not to attempt passing between them.

Brier Island Light.—In advancing up the Bay, the next Light is situated on Brier Island, about half a mile N. E. from the N. W. point thereof, with an improved Lantern and Lamp. This Light will therefore be much more beneficial to the trade of the Bay than formerly.

Annapolis Gut Light.—The next Light on the coast of Nova Scotia is placed on the West side of the Gut of Annapolis—from Brier Island North Eastward. The coast is very bold and not indented; the Light is therefore chiefly intended as a guide into Annapolis Basin. The Lamps and Lanterns were renewed in the Spring of 1835, and reflectors furnished, so that this Light is in high order.

NOTE.—The above three Lights are each single, fixed, and show WHITE lights.

Gannet Rock Light.—This Light bears from the Light on Brier Island, N. W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. 21 miles. It is intended to warn vessels of their approach to a very dangerous range of shoals and ledges, which extend from the old Proprietor to the Seal Island off Machias, a distance of about 20 miles.

Bearings from the Gannet Rock Light House.—

To the Old Proprietor, which dries at $\frac{1}{2}$ ebb, (very dangerous) E. by N. $\frac{1}{4}$ N. 7 miles.

“ Black Rock, (always above water 25 feet,) off White Head, N. E. $\frac{1}{4}$ E.

“ South West Head of Grand Manan, N. W. $\frac{1}{4}$ N.

“ Northernmost of the Murr Ledges, (dry at two-thirds ebb) N. W. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W.

“ Southernmost of ditto, called St. Mary's Ledge, (always out of water,) S. W. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W.

“ Machias Seal Island Lights, distant about 13 miles, W. by N. $\frac{1}{4}$ N.

NOTE.—Between the northernmost and southernmost of the Murr Ledges, there is a range of dangerous rocks and shoals, many of them always above water, and which extend westward from the Light House about 4 miles; from this range, farther westerly, about 8 miles, lies a dangerous breaker, called the Roaring Bull. This may be avoided by keeping three remarkable headlands, near the S. W. end of Grand Manan, open.—The red glass having been removed from the Lantern, there is now a flash light—WHITE—and three times in each minute.

Head Harbour Light.—Next in order after passing Grand Manan, is Head Harbour Light. This is placed on the N. E. extremity of Campo Bello, and is a guide to vessels entering the main channel to West Isles, Moose Island, and the inner Bay of Passamaquoddy; it enables vessels also at all times to enter Head Harbour—it is a fixed WHITE light.

Point Le Preau Lights.—Upon this projecting Head Land, two Lights have lately been placed, one above the other, and distant 18 feet. Both Lights can be seen from every point of the Compass, where they may be useful—both are fixed and WHITE.

Partridge Island Light.—This Light, at the entrance of the River and Harbour of Saint John, having been established upwards of forty years, requires no particular notice, further than that it is a fixed white light.

Beacon Light.—Within Partridge Island, and upon a Spit or Bar, which extends about half a mile S. S. E. of Sand Point, and which dries at two thirds ebb, stands the Beacon Tower. Upon this Tower a Light is established, which is eminently useful to the coasting trade of Saint John, and to all other vessels having pilots on board, as it enables them to enter the harbour at all hours of the night. A fixed WHITE light.

Quaco.—A revolving WHITE Light is placed on a small rock off Quaco Head, showing twice full and twice dark in a minute. This Light can be seen from any quarter where a vessel can approach.

West Quoddy Light.—This is an American Light, and is placed on the West side of the entrance into the Saint Croix by Lubec and Eastport;—a new Light House has lately been erected here, and the light much improved.

Two fixed white lights, upon the Machias Seal Island, were put into operation in 1832—they are elevated about forty-five feet above high water, and bear from each other E. S. E. and W. N. W. distant about 200 feet, by which they will be immediately distinguished from all other Lights upon the coast, (British or American)—the following are the bearings from them, viz :—

- To the Southernmost Murr Ledge, (St. Mary's) E. S. E. easterly
- “ Gannet Rock Light, E. by S. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. 13 miles.
- “ Southern Head of Grand Manan, E. by N. $\frac{1}{4}$ N.
- “ Northern Head of Grand Manan, N. E. $\frac{1}{4}$ E.
- “ N. E. Rock, distant 2 miles, N. E. by N.
- “ Little River Head, N. by W.
- “ Libby Island Light House, (American,) N. W. by W.

Vessels in standing in to the Northward, between these Lights and the Gannet Rock, should tack or haul off the moment they bring these Lights in one, as they will then not be more than three-fourths of a mile from the Murr Ledges, if more than 5 miles to the E. of the lights.

TIME FOR GOING THROUGH THE FALLS.

(NEAR THE CITY OF SAINT JOHN.)

The Falls are level (or still water) at about 3½ hours on the flood, and about two and a half on the ebb, which makes them passable four times in 24 hours, about ten or fifteen minutes each time.—No other rule can be given, as much depends on the floods in the river St. John, and the time of high water or full sea, which is often hastened by high winds, and in proportion to the height of them.

" How sweet to walk the pleasant fields,
Where sparkling dew-drops hail the morn,
The new-mown hay a fragrance yields,
And thrifty looks the dark green corn !"

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

(From Thomas's Almanack for 1888.)

JANUARY.

Ho! friends of the mattock and crowbar, here we are met again on the old business, cheerful and happy, it is to be hoped, and under pleasant and prosperous circumstances. Tom Clover, I rejoice in being able again to visit your domicile, and to witness the prosperity of an honest, industrious farmer. Why! you look as bright as a new coined shilling. Affairs must have gone successfully with you for the year past.—Let me see! if I do not misremember, you married one of farmer Butterfield's daughters;—ay, by my troth, she was a gentle damsel. Here we have plenary evidence that a notable wife has the charge of in-door matters. Here is a place for everything, and Mistress Dorothy Clover is not forever fretting, because things are out of place; but she makes a business of keeping her house in order. "Nabby, my daughter, said she, if you have milked the blue heifer and fed the ducklings, you must go see about the kitchen and the cookery, while I am at the dairy. But mind me—don't you leave business for the foolish prate of Ned Rattle." This is a very appropriate nickname of farmer Littleton's spoiled child, a conceited noodle of the village, a sort of a fulso pumpkin-blossom, promising no fruit, and as useless as the fifth wheel of a coach. But look at Tom Clover's barn, you find it a model of neatness and order.

FEBRUARY.

"Ha! why dost thou shiver and shake, Gaffer Gray?" It is rather tough times, when a few faggots compose all the wood-pile a farmer has during such an inclement season. But all that is wanting in this case is, that farmer Crimple should beatir himself. He has no elasticity, no energy, no efficiency. And so his poor wife, like a prison convict, is chained to a lifeless log, a dead weight, a worthless encumbrance to all her movements. It is true that such matches are made in heaven! Well, it may be so; and it is said there is nothing made in vain, not even dandies, mosquitoes, drones, or toadstools; but I hardly think that Crimple's wife would agree to this doctrine. "Give me neither poverty nor riches;" but then, give me spirit and energy enough to move in the world to some use and benefit; to perform the duties of a husband, a parent, a neighbour, and a christian. I would be happy myself in making others so; I would stir my stumps to keep my blood in circulation, so that I might be free from disease, and also to contribute something to the general health and happiness of my fellow-creatures. But hark, the merry woodmen are in the forest, the sound of the axe, and the boisterous teamster, re-echoes over the hill! Now for a noble wood pile; a most cheerful sight to an ambitious housewife; and each traveller, as he passes, cries, this is a pleasant fellow.

MARCH.

Come on, Mr. Smartly; we must give our minds to business, and let the grog-shop lingo go to the winds.—Apropos, wind indeed it is. Now let us be splitting the pine wood or cutting the hard wood, remembering all the while that economy in this matter of fuel must be practised; for those great devourers, the steam-engines, will, ere long, strip the country of its firewood, and then we shall all be in a squeeze.

fit. How spends your hay, Captain Lavish? A little bit of a pinch is not unusual about these times; and he that makes calculation on that account is seldom sorry for it. Remember the saying of Spun-up-Morgan, the Welch preacher—"He that has a cool take heet is the better off." It is requisite that farmers have a good take heed above all men, in their hopes as in the clouds and the sunshine, in the rain and in the fair weather. Their crops are uncertain, and all the fair promises of plentiful harvest may end in blight and mildew. Then look to the idea of March.

APRIL.

Now, to work, or not to work—that is the question. Shall a man, pretending to be a farmer, disdain to dirty his hands, and give the whole business to servants, by which means he is sure to come out at the little end of the horn? Or shall he, himself, take hold of the plough, and guide it on to prosperity? Shall he be at the head of affairs, handling his tools without mittens, and trusting not to proxy? I tell you what, friend Longacre, he is a true farmer who bones down to the work himself, puts his own shoulder to the wheel, and recovers not from the tug of business. It will never do to depend altogether on other people. There is a great cry about help, and the expense of it, but let a farmer help himself, and cultivate no more land than he can well manage with the help of his family; let him give his boys, if he have any, a proper education, a farmer's education, not foolishly suffer them to imbibe the false notions that some have, viz. that it is ungentlemanly to know how to handle a hoe or a pitchfork, and that a young man's good reputation depends on the fit of his dickey, or the shape and trim of his whiskers. Get them up early, and inculcate habits of business rather than money spending. Let them know that they were not made in vain, but must work out their own salvation.

MAY.

What of the farmers' daughters? Are they to sit in idleness, while their mothers are busy about the affairs of their families? Are they to be indulged in the notion, that they will find no sweethearts, if they are seen milking that odious creature, the cow? Are they to be made to believe that it is disreputable for a young lady to earn her living? That industry and gentility are incompatible with each other? that the fingers of the fair were only made to sport a cambric needle, or to tap the keys of pianoforte? [Apropos, what senseless stuff do these melody-squeakers bring forth, and call it music] Tush! let a farmer's daughter be fitted for a farmer's wife, and then she will do for a nobleman. By no means would I have the cultivation of her mind neglected; but the fashion of keeping a girl at school all the time is a most miserable one; for the preceps, or school dame, is generally a despiser of common sense, and would think it degrading in a lady to know how to cook a dinner of pot-luck. Do not take offence, my fair pedagogues; I would by no means offend true delicacy. But, tell me, seriously—do you not think it an indictable offence for any one to talk, before the ladies, about fried pork and parsnips, bean porridge and buttermilk? Look to your daughters, ye mothers, who have had experience, and know well the truth of what is here laid down.

JUNE.

Hail, lovely, lovely June! fairest month of all the year. It is full of promise, full of beauty, full of pleasure. The verdant lawns, the busy labourers, the feeding cattle, the robin, the thrush, the bobolink; and then the inimitable flute bird, the Catalini of the forest;

of the forest ;

thres and a thousand other charms make this month the queen of the year.—“ Pooch ! towah ! ” says farmer Glumkin. “ This is all glib nonsense and fashionable humdrum. I had rather have one month of September or October, when the crops come in than a thousand Junes ; and I would not care a fig if your June was struck out of the calendar.” So it is, and so it will be ; we cannot all think alike. Some will look at the beautiful impression upon a golden coin, and admire it, while others, totally reckless of external beauty, regard nothing but its solid contents. It is well that we are not all scrambling for the same thing. What say ye of the brotherhood, did any of you get into the rubbers ? Did any of you, in your longing to grow suddenly rich, cast your net into the fish-pool of speculation, and draw out nothing but crabs and putts ? Hah ! far better had you been cutting faggots with a bill hook, or raking polypod in the bog lands ; for then you would have remained within the boundary of your occupation.

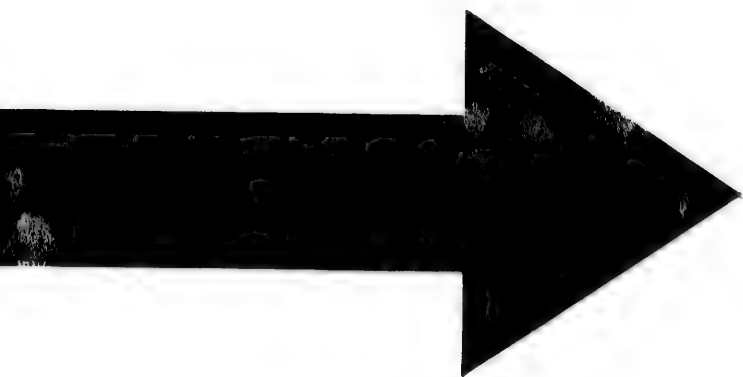

JULY.

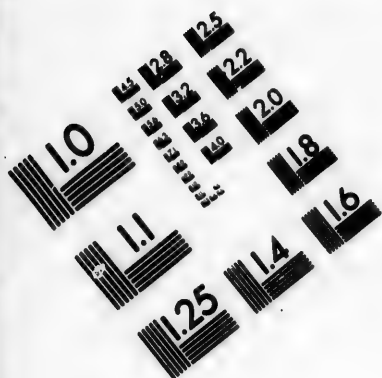

Pretty dull doing, Capt. Trudge, hint it ! you are poking in the dirt here, quite alone ! Your boys that used to be knocking about upon the farm, and making it shine, I am told, are gone to Canada and the far West. A pretty piece of business this ! They want to live easy ; and so they leave father and mother, and this beautiful homestead of 300 acres, a plenty for them all, and his away to the country where but a little labour is required in cultivating the earth, and where there is more time for pitching quoits, swapping horses, and lounging at the grog-shop. The good old habits must be given up, and new notions and views of things are to take place. Well, never mind, Capt. Trudge, experience will do its work, and your boys will be satisfied, we hope not too late, that exertion is necessary to the attainment of wealth, wisdom, and happiness ; and that an industrious farmer is as honorable an appellation as is conferred upon any one. But here is land enough and enough. The worst on't is, our young men have a silly notion that dress makes the man. Rig up—trig up—sprig up ? O, what a piny to be obliged to put such delicate fingers into the dirt ! To dig, to rake, to mow ! to wield a crow-bar ! perchance to lug a hog-pail ! What if my father, and my grandfather, and great-grandfather, were farmers. I'll never wear a checkered frock :—“ I'll be a butterfly.”

SEPTEMBER.

Crops, crops ! what crops, Mr. Fairsoil ? Now is the season to make glad the farmer, who has, day after day, toiled and sweat, that the earth beneath his hand might bring forth her wholesome fruits, and repay the labourer for his industry. Industry ! ay, this is the farmer's countersign. Let it pass from man to man, from farm to farm, o'er hill and dale, and into every rural retreat. Have you been industrious, neighbour Stocks, and attentive to your agricultural concerns, or have you suffered the important opportunities of improvement to slip by ? You may not be intemperate, you may not habituate yourself to grog-shop drinking ; still there are those who like much to be in other men's way, and hang about, and inquire after the news, while their corn-fields and cabbage-yards are choking up with weeds. I hope you are not one of these, neighbour Stocks. O, neighbour Stocks, how pleasant a thing it is to be crowding the granaries at this season !—“ Fill high ! fill high ! ” But mind ye, this is not the echo of foot Bacchanal carousal, but the note of the farmer's glee at Harvest Home. Pile ! pile ! till the ridge-pole of your scaffolding shall creak ;

and the deal boards shall "gape into chinks" at the pressure. He-

OCTOBER.

Music has not much to do with digging potatoes or laying stone wall; but then a farmer may be musical in many of his operations.—
Capt. Trapp can never mow a rod without humming "Home, sweet Home!" Deacon Cooley always drives his team to the tune of "Old Casterbury; and my aunt Loix Waxworthy might as well give up the job, and not churn at all, as to think of going on in the business without her accustomed twang of Chevy Chase. The music of the farmer's boy is always pleasant, while driving his cattle to and fro from closure to closure. And there is the ever-cheerful milk maid? Ay, many's the time that we have been charmed with her sweet notes, as she bore home the rich treasure from the bonny brindles, and equipping too across the hedge to catch a glimpse of her cousin Caleb.—Now, it is a very laudable thing to sing at church too, and to chaunt the high praises of Him who has prepared for us this beautiful world, with all its wondrous varieties. But there must be some system about this matter of singing in choirs. Grudge not the little expense there may be for instruction in psalm-singing. If your children have voices, it was intended that they should use them in this most delightful of all employments. What! shall not a farmer raise his notes of gratitude to Heaven? Yes, above all others, it is his bounden duty to express his thankfulness.

NOVEMBER.

Hah! a load of wood brought into the City by Capt. Shirk! A very fine load indeed! "Pretty fair," as the saying is. "Not so very fair as you may be after thinking," cried Pat Sly. I then looked again more critically, and saw the deception. I found that Capt.
Shirk understood the art of light and shade to perfection, and could so dispose of the various materials of a load of wood, as to make it a most imposing picture. Short sticks, cat-sticks, soggy sticks, and rotten sticks, he well understood how to arrange to give the desired effect. I imagined that I could see the captain giving orders to his men how to load up. "Peter, my son," said he, "we must make as much as we can, these hard times. Jonas, arrange the long timber on the outside. See, Caleb, that the front and rear look fair and handsome, for, you know, all must be fair, very fair in our way. Jehoshaphat, you know how to fill up in the centre. Let nothing be lost.—
We must be saving, you know;—he? Saving, saving—cousin Jehoshaphat, for wood is wood now-a-days." Now, this load of Shirk's wood its owner intended to have sold for sound and solid, of full size and dimensions. I am glad that this same Capt. Shirk forms no sample of a true New-Brunswick farmer. I hope our worthy yeomen practise all proper economy.

DECEMBER.

Capt. Ploughbeam and Ben Barleycorn say, When shall we three meet again? When, ay, when? It may not hap again on terrestrial soils; for we "would not live alway," and we are assured that in our Father's house are "many mansions," and no doubt, kings, priests, nobles, and peasants, alike inhabit there. But as we have come to the very last sheaf of our binding, and the twilight of evening en-wraps us, we will agree, if you please, to adjourn; and, Providence allowing, our next greeting shall be held at the happy fire-side of my well-kept farm, and follow wisdom of the master, and a shrewd behav-nor, the hearty, the industrious, the faithful Sam. Glover, that mind me now, be not slack in well doing in the mean time. I might should think proper to tip up a jag of fuel at the door of the Widow Needham, do not be so mean as to allow your imagined generosity with a millions of shirkwood. If your pity is excited at beholding the hungry, pattered, and destitute family of the imprudent Bob Rees, and your generous urges you to some charitable act on their behalf, say in it, that your beneficence is gratuitous, and that the aged and “fading” face, be surely not your object. Mark! The poor begins to growl. He hates to hear so much on this subject, and shows the pocking strings of his money-bag closer and closer. My friends, good by, with all my heart.

BRIEF HINTS FOR NOVEMBER.—As the Farmer's work is now generally completed, implements should be cleaned, dried, and laid aside. Every farmer should have a building for his corn, ploughs, harrows, &c., when dry. There should be a place for every thing, and everything in its place, in order to prevent rusting, and if they have time to finish up their tools. Tools will last much longer if painted, and how is a good time to do the work.

Whenever practicable, plough the ground for spring crops. Look ahead for next spring, or you will get in your head too late. To employ leisure time in repairing fences, to prevent heavy losses.
To prevent all your refuse apples for feeding dogs and cat, turning them into manure. They are worth more than potatoes, as has been proved by experiment and weighing.

To salt pork properly, it is essential only to salt the pieces completely in salt. Place a layer of salt on the bottom, then a layer of pork in the usual manner, filling the interstices, and so on till the barrel is filled. Use plenty of salt, it will not be lost. Saltpetre, when used, should be in very small quantities, say a 400th part. Some add a small quantity of sugar.

To cure hams, mix a bushel of good salt with a pound of nitre, rub the hams well with the mixture, and put them down. Rub them again in a few days that they may absorb the salt more essentially. In about four weeks (longer if the pieces are small) wash them and hang them up in the smoke house. The following mixture has been recommended as good for hams. One pound salt, one ounce nitre, pulverized and mixed, added to two quarts molasses; the pieces to be thoroughly rubbed with this and laid flesh side up, and suffered to remain three weeks.

To preserve a few vegetables remain to be gathered, nothing should be taken up, or a wash dry day, drained in an inverted position, so that water as they contain, and properly protected from frost and too great dryness, and from frost. They may be thus preserved in a box or cask. One will place them in a cask with a large barrel in a box of earth. Another is to pass them in a row in a dry barrel, or garden, in an upright position, the roots and stems buried, and then covering them with two board boards or straw, in the form of a roof, and burying these with earth. Another is to contain the roots in a box, and bury them in a peat or pine, precisely as burning of wood is treated. When put in the cellar, they should be dry and clean, and if in warm weather, they will have a number of roots under which need protection before winter. A little may be laid down; still upright ones may be wanted by pressing new well with the branches of evergreen. All transplanted bellows 183m will also need protection.

Apertures made, when the tops are dead, should be cleared off, and a layer of dung one or two inches thick spread evenly over.

Seeds of parsneps, carrots, onions, &c. may be sown in autumn to advantage if done so late that they will not vegetate before cold weather. Early pease may be sown to great advantage, if there is no danger from mice. A writer on gardening, says:—"To cultivate parsneps, sow the seed in autumn soon after they are ripe, by which means the seed will come up early the following spring, and let the plants get strong before the weeds will grow to injure them."

All vacant ground should be ploughed or spaded to be subjected to the action of winter frosts, and to be in readiness as early as possible in the spring. [Gleaner Furrow.]

HINTS TO FARMERS.—Never feed potatoes to stock without boiling or steaming, as this increases their nutritive qualities.

One bushel flax seed, ground with 8 bushels of oats is better for horses than 16 bushels oats alone, and will effectually destroy the beetle.

Never burn all dry wood in your fire place, nor use a fire place when you can get a stove.

Cut your trees for rails in February, as they are most durable.

Never dew-rot your flax, unless you wish to render it worthless. Never select your seed corn from the crib, but from the stalk. Never feed out your best potatoes and plant the refuse, nor sell your best sheep and keep the poorest.—A fat ox is worth more than a poor horse, and does not eat as much—a yoke and chain can be bought for less money than a waggon harness.—Horses that are confined in a stable never have the staggers.

VALUE OF AN ORCHARD.—I had the pleasure of calling a few days ago on an old and esteemed friend, and a successful farmer, one who does not follow things because they are new, but who first proves and then adheres to them if they are good. He invited me to visit his orchard, one which I have known to be excellent fruit bearing, for more than twenty years. It contains about four acres. From it he had gathered an abundant supply of superior apples for winter use, had put into his cellar some two hundred bushels for feeding his pigs through the winter: had gathered enough of the best cider apples to make a few barrels for boiling into molasses, making sauce, and a supply for vinegar; and the ground was still covered in every direction with the ripe and golden fruit; while but a small part apparently, had fallen from the trees. But what interested me most, was a fine drove of fatting hogs, some fifteen or twenty I should think, large, thick, heavy and apparently nearly fit for slaughtering; and yet my friend assured me that his swine had nothing but clover and apples, and a full supply of the latter but a few days: he not allowing them to go into the orchard, until a supply for other purposes was secured. He was corroborated by repeated experiment, he said, that swine would fat as well and as fast on apples as on any food whatever; but he had made it a rule to feed them for a week or two before killing with corn, as it was the general opinion, it gave greater solidity to the pork. He also stated his belief, drawn from experiment, that good fresh apples during the winter, were as valuable for feeding pigs pound for pound, as few potatoes. White potatoes could be boiled or steamed, he thought, as well as the potatoes would be the best. In short, I consequently there was no fear as to any friend's productive farm, that would yield him near the net-profit he would derive from his orchard; and then the cultivation of good orchards to a proper extent was a game of sound policy with every one who would derive profit from farming.

RADISHES.—Elymer A. Spaulding, of Lockport, showed us the radishes raised in the following way. Pit sand was taken from the depth of seventeen feet, and spread over the surface of the soil six inches deep; in this bed of sand the radishes were planted.

PREVENTION OF DRY ROT IN TIMBER: KYAN'S PATENT.

We have perused a great number of official documents and other testimonials in favor of Mr. Kyan's method for preventing the dry rot in timber, and we have been much struck with the success—the never-failing success, we may say of the application. The discovery consists in the subjection of the timber, cordage, canvass, &c. to the action of a solution of corrosive sublimate in water—in the proportion of one pound of corrosive sublimate to five gallons of water. The effect of this application, upon comparison with the durability of similar substances not so prepared, seems to be conclusive. Timber, cordage, &c., subjected to the action of this solution, have been found perfectly sound at the end of twelve months, while the unprepared samples have been either destroyed, or exhibited marks of decay. We understand that the additional outlay upon timber intended for ships or buildings, so prepared, would be about 10s. per ton, while the timber itself would continue serviceable for treble the ordinary duration of time.

Horn Radish cut into small pieces and chewed in the mouth, is an excellent remedy for hoarseness, coughs, colds, and cases of incipient consumption.

One of the best liquids for diluting ink that has become too thick for use, is a strong decoction of coffee; it improves its colour, and gives it an additional lustre.

HOW MEN SHOULD TREAT WOMEN.—A Persian poet gives the following instruction upon this important subject:—"When thou art married, seek to please thy wife; but listen not to all she says. From man's right side a rib was taken to form the woman, and never was there seen a rib quite straight. It breaks, but bends not. Since then the plain that crooked is woman's temper, forgive her faults, and blame her not; nor let her anger thee, nor coercion use, as all is vain to straighten what is curved."

QUAKER JUSTICE.—Two Quakers resident in Philadelphia applied to their society, as they do not go to law, to decide in the following difficulty:—A is uneasy about a ship that ought to have arrived, meets B, an insurer, and states his wish to have the vessel insured—the matter is agreed upon—A. forgoes home, and receives a letter informing him of the loss of his ship. What shall he do? He is afraid that the policy is not filled, and should B. hear of the matter when it is all over with him; he therefore writes to B. thus:—"Friend B. if thou hast filled up the policy, then shew'st for thee heard of the ship." "Oh, oh!" thinks B. to himself, "cunning fellow—he wants to me out of the premium." So he writes thus to A.:—"Friend A. thou hast not too long by half an hour, the policy is filled." A. rubs his hands with delight—yet B. refuses to pay. Well, what is the decision? The case is divided between them. Perhaps this is even-handed justice, though unquestionably an odd decision.

Mr. Macqueen estimates the property in the British Colonies to be worth £1,052,200,000; and its produce to be £1,518,015,788. He estimates the "public property" of Great Britain and her Colonies at £170,000,000, and makes the property of the British Empire £1,091,200,000, from which when we deduct the national debt, amounting to £772,196,849, leaves a net amount of property of £29,803,150,151. To this last sum the author appends the following note:—"To this sum, and to the value of land, ought to be added the value of property in timber; £3,000,000 yearly, or a capital of £30,000,000." He further says:—"The stock in warehouses, shops, &c. in the Colonies cannot be estimated."

Much as Mr. Macqueen has done, and valuable as his researches are, we are not quite sure that he has given to the land all its value; and he has no estimate of the value of corn-mills, of which there is one or two, if not more, on an average, in every parish in Great Britain and Ireland. These are good for at least £6,000,000 of capital. However, enough has been done to show, upon the best data, the immense wealth and resources of the country. Let us now proceed to a few of the details.

The number of horses in the country, Mr. Macqueen estimates to be 2,321,562, (of which, 591,918 he takes to be riding or carriage horses) and estimated their value £66,392,143.

The total stock of sheep in the United Kingdom is valued at £2,300,000, and their value at 1,400,000, and their value at 2,300,000.

The stock of sheep is estimated to be upwards of 25,000,000, and their value at 2,300,000.

The stock of swine in the United Kingdom is valued at £2,300,000, and their value at the same figure in pounds sterling.

The capital in poultry and rabbits is calculated to be upwards of £10,000,000.

Mr. Macquess's estimate of the average value of corn is as follows:

Wheat, 20,000,000 qrs. at 50s. 1,000,000,000.

Barley, 10,000,000 qrs. at 38s. 3,800,000,000.

Oats, 44,000,000 qrs. at 20s. 8,800,000,000.

Total Grain, 1,000,000,000.

The annual value of potatoes is stated to be upwards of £20,000,000.

With respect to the annual value of milk, butter, and cheese, we have the following:

Milk, 1,000,000,000.

Butter, 1,000,000,000.

Cheese, 1,000,000,000.

Total, 1,000,000,000.

Cheshire is stated to produce 11,500 tons of cheese annually, 4000 of which are exported. Derbyshire sends 2000 tons annually to London. The Vale of Berkeley, Gloucestershire, exports 1200 tons of cheese yearly, and also 5000 tons of whey, 8000 tons of butter, and 1000 tons of cheese sent down the Trent annually, through Leicestershire, from adjacent Counties.

The annual quantity of sheep's wool, long and short, is estimated at 245,700,000 lbs. and its value at £13,976,166.

The value of garden fruits and vegetables is set down at about £80,000,000 per annum.

The author says:—"Taking every thing into account, including fish exported, I believe the produce of the British fisheries (exclusive of the Colonies,) by sea and land, is not over-rated at £12,000,000,000."

THE GREAT NORTH AMERICAN LAKES.—Relative extent, elevation, &c.—The Ontario is 180 miles long, 40 miles wide, 200 feet deep, and its surface is bounded at 231 feet elevation above the tide water at Three Rivers, 270 miles below Cape Saint Vincent.

The Erie is 210 miles long, 60 miles wide, 130 feet deep, and its surface is ascertained to be near 455 feet above the tide water.

The Huron is 250 miles long, 100 miles average breadth, 100 feet deep, and its surface is nearly 565 feet above the tide water.

The Michigan is 400 miles long, 50 miles wide, its elevation above the sea is the same as the Huron.

Green Bay is about 100 miles long, 20 miles wide, depth unknown, elevation the same as the Huron.

Lake Superior is 480 miles long, 100 miles average width, 200 feet deep, and its surface is 648 feet above the tide water.

Bottom of Lake Ontario, 262 feet below the surface of the tide water. Huron, 365 do.—Michigan, 305 feet do.—Superior, 505 feet do.
